Case No.:

COMPLAINT

1 Plaintiff, Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Commission”), alleges as follows:

2 SUMMARY

3 1. This case concerns a long-running fraudulent offering of securities perpetrated by 4 Defendants Matthew Wade Beasley, Esq., his law firm Beasley Law Group PC (“Beasley Law
5 Group”), Jeffrey Judd, Christopher Humphries, and three entities that Judd controlled: J&J
6 Consulting Services, Inc. (a Nevada corporation), J&J Consulting Services, Inc. (an Alaska
7 corporation), and J and J Purchasing LLC (unless otherwise noted, collectively, the “J&J 8 Entities”), a scheme for which Judd, Humphries, and Defendants Shane M. Jager, Jason M.
9 Jongeward, Denny Seybert, Roland Tanner, and others acted as promoters.

10 2. The scheme worked as follows: from at least 2017 and continuing through March 11 2022, the J&J Entities offered investments in purported settlement contracts with tort plaintiffs 12 called “purchase agreements.” These investments in the so-called “purchase agreements” 13 constituted securities under federal law. Judd, Humphries, and others told investors:

- 14 a. that they could purchase interests in insurance tort settlements, and that the 15 invested money was used to make advance payments to tort plaintiffs who had 16 reached settlements with insurance companies for tort claims and who were 17 willing to pay a premium to receive a portion of their settlement in advance 18 rather than wait for payment from the insurance companies;
- 19 b. that investors would receive returns on their investments of at least 12.5% 20 every 90 days, for an annualized return of 50%, sometimes more, and that the 21 investment had almost zero risk; and
- 22 c. that Beasley and Beasley Law Group managed relationships with numerous 23 personal injury attorneys around the country to maintain a supply of purchase 24 agreements to the J&J Entities and their investors.

25 3. From at least 2017 to March 2022, over 600 investors invested in the scheme, and 26 it appears that at least $449 million in investor funds flowed into the scheme through Beasley
27 Law Group’s attorney trust (“IOLTA”) account at Wells Fargo, N.A. The amount that investors

1 may have been paid in Ponzi payments is as yet unknown. During that time, Beasley and Judd 2 acted as business partners in the J&J Entities and Beasley purported to act as an attorney for the 3 J&J Entities.

4 4. In fact, the purchase agreements were fictitious, a fact which Beasley, Judd, and 5 Humphries knew or were reckless in not knowing. Beasley, Beasley Law Group PC, Judd, and 6 the J&J Entities did not use investor money to purchase interests in personal injury settlements, 7 as Judd, Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner represented to actual and 8 prospective investors.

9 5. Beasley, Judd, and others used a portion of investors' money to make periodic 10 payments of fictitious "returns" on the purchase agreements to investors in a Ponzi-like fashion, 11 but used the bulk of investor money to fund lavish lifestyles, including purchasing luxury homes 12 and properties, a private jet, ATVs, boats, and numerous luxury cars for themselves and their 13 relatives. Each of Judd, Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner recruited dozens, if 14 not hundreds, of investors into the scheme and received transaction-based compensation for 15 bringing in additional investors and more money from existing investors, even though none of 16 them was a registered broker or dealer, nor associated with a broker or dealer, registered with the 17 Commission.

18 6. On March 3, 2022, agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI") 19 executed search warrants at the homes of Judd, Humphries, and Beasley. When agents arrived at 20 Beasley's home, Beasley brandished a pistol and the agents shot him twice. Beasley then locked 21 himself inside his home for nearly four hours. During that standoff, Beasley repeatedly confessed 22 to an FBI negotiator that the J&J Entities' investment scheme was actually a Ponzi scheme that 23 started in 2016 or 2017.

24 7. The Commission brings this action to halt Defendants' violations of the federal 25 securities laws, prevent further harm to investors, and to seek disgorgement and civil penalties 26 stemming from Defendants' wrongdoing, among other remedies.
27

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

8. The Commission brings this action pursuant to Sections 20(b) and 20(d) of the Securities Act of 1933 (“Securities Act”) [15 U.S.C. § 77t(b) and (g)] and Sections 21(d) and (e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Exchange Act”) [15 U.S.C. § 78u(d) and (e)] to enjoin such acts, practices, and courses of business, and to obtain disgorgement, prejudgment interest, civil money penalties, and such other and further relief as this Court may deem just and appropriate.

9. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to Section 22 of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77v] and Section 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78aa].

10. Venue is proper in this Court pursuant to Section 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78aa] because Defendants and Relief Defendants are found, inhabit, and/or transacted business in the District of Nevada and because one or more acts or transactions constituting the violations alleged herein occurred in the District of Nevada.

11. Defendants were, individually and collectively, involved in the offer and sale of the securities, as that term is defined under Section 2(a)(1) of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C. § 77b(a)(1)] and Section 3(a)(10) of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(10)], issued by Defendants J&J Consulting Services, Inc., a Nevada corporation, J&J Consulting Services, Inc., an Alaska corporation, and J and J Purchasing LLC.

12. Defendants, directly or indirectly, made use of the mails or the means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce in connection with the conduct alleged in this Complaint.

24. The Judd Irrevocable Trust is a trust of unknown date and domicile, believed to be under the control of Matthew Beasley, Jeffrey Judd, and/or Jennifer Judd. On information and belief, Matthew Beasley is a trustee. The Judd Irrevocable Trust received at least $1.4 million in transfers from the Beasley Law Group IOLTA account at Wells Fargo, N.A. 12 confessed that the money paid to Alberto was proceeds from the fraud used to pay gambling 13 debts. Money Crew LLC received investor money to which it has no legitimate claim.

14 FACTS

15 I. Judd, Humphries, and the J&J Entities Raised Money from Investors with False 16 Representations of an Investment in Personal Injury Settlements.

17 35. Beginning at least as of January 1, 2017 and continuing until March 2022, the J&J
18 Entities, directly and through Judd, Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner, offered 19 investments in purported personal injury settlement contracts. Judd told investors that he had a 20 litigation financing business with his attorney, Matthew Beasley, whereby Judd invested money 21 in contracts with personal injury plaintiffs while Beasley procured those contracts through his 22 contacts with other attorneys around the country. Judd told investors that Beasley and his law 23 firm Beasley Law Group had relationships with personal injury attorneys whose clients had 24 settlements with insurance companies, and who were willing to pay a premium to receive a 25 portion of their settlement in advance rather than wait for payment from the insurance 26 companies. Judd told investors that the J&J Entities entered into “purchase agreements” with the 27 personal injury plaintiffs whereby the J&J Entities advanced to the personal injury plaintiffs a

1 portion of their expected insurance settlement payout, and the plaintiffs repaid the J&J Entities 2 plus interest and fees when their insurance payout arrived.

3 36. Judd told investors that the purchase agreements came in amounts of $80,000 or 4 $100,000, with a term of 90 days, although he also said he allowed investors to split contracts
5 with him or other investors if they wanted to invest less than $80,000. Judd told different 6 investors that they would receive different returns. Judd told some investors that they would 7 make up to $22,000 within 90 days on an investment of $100,000. Judd told other investors they 8 would receive 12.5% on their investments (50% on an annual basis), for a return of $12,500 9 within 90 days on an investment of $100,000 or $10,000 within 90 days on an investment of 10 $80,000.

11 37. Judd told investors that at the end of the 90-day period, the J&J Entities would 12 reinvest the principal in a new purchase agreement with a new tort plaintiff, and the investor 13 could continue to receive his or her promised returns every 90 days. Judd told investors that they 14 could get their principal back rather than reinvesting it at the end of the contract term if they 15 chose.

16 38. Judd told investors that the tort plaintiffs who entered the purchase agreements 17 paid an administrative fee of $5,000, half of which went to Beasley and Beasley Law Group, and 18 the other half of which went to the tort plaintiff's attorney. Judd also told investors that Beasley 19 and Beasley Law Group managed the relationships with the various personal injury attorneys and 20 wrote the agreements with the personal injury plaintiffs, while Judd managed the investment side 21 of the business with assistance from his son Parker Judd. On information and belief, Judd 22 highlighted the fact that attorney Beasley was involved and that investor funds flowed through 23 Beasley Law Group's IOLTA account.

24 39. Judd told investors that the risk from investing in the purchase agreements was 25 almost zero. Judd also told some investors that he would make good any investor loss, saying 26 that he and Beasley had a separate fund to make investors whole if a personal injury plaintiff 27

1 failed to pay on a contract. He claimed he had “never had to use” this fund, because “we’ve 2 never had one go bad.”

3 40. Humphries, like Judd, promoted the J&J Entities investment scheme to numerous 4 investors. Like Judd, Humphries told investors that the investment involved funding purchase 5 agreements with personal injury plaintiffs who had settlements with insurance companies but 6 wanted to obtain a portion of their money in advance. Humphries told investors that Matthew 7 Beasley and his law firm Beasley Law Group managed the relationships with various attorneys 8 to supply the purchase agreements to Judd and the J&J Entities. Humphries told investors that 9 the purchase agreements were in amounts of $80,000 or $100,000 and paid returns of 13% every 10 90 days. Humphries told investors that their capital would be reinvested in a new purchase 11 agreement at the expiration of each prior purchase agreement. Humphries told investors that 12 there was little to no risk on the investment.

13 41. Humphries received compensation for bringing new investors into the scheme and 14 for raising additional money from existing investors. He told one investor that he received 5% of 15 the investor funds he raised and that he made around $250,000 every three months.

16 42. Judd and Humphries typically instructed investors to wire their investment money 17 to Beasley Law Group’s IOLTA account at Wells Fargo Bank N.A., but sometimes instructed 18 investors to wire their investment money to other accounts as well, including an account in the 19 name of J&J Consulting Services, Inc. at U.S. Bank, and an account in the name of Humphries’ 20 entity CJ Investments LLC.

21 II. Defendants’ Representations Were Materially False and Misleading

22 43. The foregoing representations made to investors by Judd, the J&J Entities, and 23 Humphries were materially false and misleading. Judd and the J&J Entities did not invest the 24 investors’ funds in contracts with personal injury plaintiffs. Beasley and Beasley Law Group did 25 not actually procure contracts with personal injury plaintiffs and their attorneys.

26 44. Beasley confessed on March 3, 2022 to an FBI negotiator that the business was a 27 Ponzi scheme. Beasley and Judd returned a small portion of the invested money to investors in

1 Ponzi-type payments to meet investors' expectations of the promised percentages of returns
2 every 90 days. These payments promoted investor confidence in the scheme, encouraged current 3 investors to invest more money, and allowed Beasley, Judd, and Humphries to continue to find 4 new victims. In reality, Beasley, Judd, and Humphries used the majority of investor money for 5 lavish personal expenses and to pay others to promote the scheme.

6 45. To lend credibility to the scheme, Beasley created fake "purchase agreements" 7 between J&J Consulting or J and J Purchasing and various purported injured tort plaintiffs and 8 their attorneys, which were then shared with investors by Judd, Humphries and other promoters.
9 Beasley often used the names of real attorneys from around the country (and sometimes even 10 used the names of real personal injury tort plaintiffs) on the fake purchase agreements, but there 11 were no actual underlying tort settlements and the attorneys whose names appeared on the fake 12 purchase agreements had no actual connection to Beasley. An example of one of these "purchase 13 agreements" is attached as Exhibit A.

14 46. Until approximately December 2020, Judd provided investors "Investment 15 Agreements" or "Buyer Agreements" purporting to memorialize the investor's investment in a 16 tort plaintiff's purchase agreement. The agreements were between the investor, and Judd and J&J 17 Consulting Services, Inc. An example of one of the "Investment Agreements" is attached as 18 Exhibit B. An example of one titled a "Buyer Agreement" is attached as Exhibit C. These 19 agreements were signed by Judd.

20 47. In approximately October 2021, Judd began telling investors that he was making 21 modifications to the business at the suggestion an attorney who conducted a review of the 22 business. As part of these purported business modifications, Judd formed J and J Purchasing 23 LLC in October 2021 and started operating the investment business through J and J Purchasing.
24 In approximately December 2021, as part of the business modifications, Judd started requiring 25 investors to sign new documentation with J and J Purchasing: a Confidential Private Placement 26 Memorandum ("PPM"); a Non-Compete, Non-Disclosure and Non-Solicitation Agreement; a 27 Mutual Confidentiality and Non-Disclosure Agreement, and a Confidential Subscription

1 Agreement. Judd personally distributed these documents to some investors, and the Promoter 2 Defendants and other promoters distributed copies to their investors. A copy of the PPM is 3 attached as Exhibit D.

4 48. Judd and Humphries told investors that Beasley managed the relationship with the 5 personal injury attorneys and, on information and belief, told investors that they were not 6 allowed to contact the attorneys or plaintiffs whose names appeared on the purchase agreements.
7 This kept investors from learning that the attorneys and plaintiffs on the purchase agreements 8 were not actually parties to the purchase agreements, and that the purchase agreements were 9 fake.

10 49. Despite this admonition from Judd and Humphries, some investors contacted the 11 attorneys named in the purchase agreements to inquire whether the purchase agreements were 12 real, only to discover that the attorneys had no such personal injury clients and no relationship 13 with Matthew Beasley or Beasley Law Group.

14 III. Beasley, Beasley Law Group, Judd, the J&J Entities, and Humphries Acted With 15 Scienter

16 50. Defendants Beasley, Beasley Law Group, Judd, the Judd Entities, and Humphries 17 knowingly or recklessly engaged in the fraudulent scheme detailed in the paragraphs above.

18 51. On March 3, 2022, when the FBI attempted to serve a search warrant at his home, 19 Beasley engaged in a standoff for approximately four hours with FBI agents, during which 20 Beasley spoke by telephone with an FBI negotiator. In the recorded calls with the FBI negotiator, 21 Beasley repeatedly confessed that the J&J investment was a Ponzi scheme that he started in 2016 22 or 2017. He confessed that the purchase agreements were fake and he used the names of 23 attorneys he did not know on the purchase agreements.

24 52. Beasley confessed that investors were promised that their investment money 25 would be given to someone who had settled a personal injury case but had not received their 26 settlement money yet. He confessed that he “got names of attorneys” for the scheme but “I never 27 actually talked to them.” He confessed that as Jeffrey Judd found more investors, “I made up

1 more attorney's deals and just kept growing it." Beasley confessed that investors "would give 2 their money to me, and I would supposedly send it to a bunch of attorneys" but actually "I kept it 3 and used it to pay, basically pay them back to pay off gambling debts."

4 53. Judd knew or was reckless in not knowing that the purchase agreements were fake 5 and that the investment scheme was a fraud. Judd, as Beasley's business partner in the scheme 6 for over seven years, either knew that the business was a fraud, or was reckless in not knowing.
7 Judd worked intimately with Beasley throughout the entire scheme. Judd told investors that he 8 and Beasley operated the business together and that Beasley was his attorney. Judd told at least 9 one investor that he saw bank statements and other documentation from Beasley. Had Judd 10 reviewed the bank statements of the Beasley IOLTA account—where, on information and belief, 11 he knew investor funds were aggregated—he would have readily seen that the investment 12 scheme was not a legitimate business and that there were very few, if any, proceeds of personal 13 injury tort settlements pursuant to the purchase agreements flowing into the account.

14 54. Further, the J&J Entities, which Judd controlled, were the counterparties on all the 15 purported purchase agreements and Judd supposedly signed them on behalf of his entities. As of 16 February 24, 2022, Judd boasted that he had $475 million "under management," was doing 450 17 contracts per week, and had done over 16,000 contracts to date. Judd either knew or was reckless 18 in not knowing that the purported counterparties on those 16,000 contracts did not actually enter 19 the agreements. Judd knew the purchase agreements were never signed by the purported 20 counterparties, or he recklessly disregarded that fact. Had Judd conducted the most basic of due 21 diligence on the fake purchase agreements and the flow of funds to and from Beasley Law 22 Group, it would have revealed the scheme.

23 55. Upon information and belief, Humphries also knew or was reckless in not 24 knowing that the purchase agreement investment scheme was a fraud. Upon information and 25 belief, Humphries was at least aware of indicia that the tort settlements at issue in the investment 26 were fictitious and acted to hide that fact from investors.
27

1 56. Judd and Humphries acted to hide the fraud from investors by telling them that 2 they were prohibited from contacting the parties to the purchase agreements. Over the years, 3 despite being told not to do so, several investors contacted the attorneys listed on the purchase 4 agreements and the attorneys denied having such clients or entering the purchase agreements. On 5 information and belief, this information made its way back to the promoters, including 6 Humphries, and ultimately to Judd himself. Various investors pushed their promoters, Judd, and 7 the J&J Entities to answer questions about the inability to verify that the purchase agreements 8 were real, or asked to see documentation such as bank statements showing actual money flows to 9 the purported counterparties on the purchase agreements. When promoters confronted Judd and 10 the J&J Entities about the fact that attorneys on the purchase agreements denied that the purchase 11 agreements were legitimate, Judd hid the fraud by stating to investors that the law firms were 12 probably denying the existence of the contracts simply due to client confidentiality concerns.

13 57. At least as early as 2019, Judd started requiring investors to enter non-disclosure 14 agreements as a condition of investing. Judd and his promoters also often required investors to 15 sign a document saying that they were prohibited from contacting any parties related to the 16 personal injury settlement or purchase agreement without the written consent of Jeffrey Judd.
17 Also, the “Investor Agreement” and “Buyer Agreement” documents (Exs. B and C hereto) 18 expressly prohibited investors from contacting the parties on the purchase agreements without 19 Judd’s consent.

20 58. Ultimately, on or around January 2022, Judd and certain of his promoters decided 21 to stop sending the fake purchase agreements to investors altogether. Judd gave investors the 22 excuse that his “attorneys” had advised him to stop sending the purchase agreements to them.

23 59. On information and belief, Judd required investors to sign the document 24 prohibiting them from contacting the parties related to the personal injury settlement or purchase 25 agreement, and ultimately stopped disseminating the fake purchase agreements, because he was 26 attempting to hide their fictitious nature from investors.

1 60. Despite that they knew or were reckless in not knowing that the Purchase 2 Agreements were fake, Humphries and Judd nonetheless continued to solicit new investors and 3 additional investments from existing investors.

4 IV. Defendants Judd, Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner Violated the 5 Federal Securities Laws by Acting as Unregistered Brokers.

6 61. In addition to Humphries, Judd had several other promoters working underneath 7 him to locate new investors and funnel investment money into the J&J Entities scheme.
8 Defendants Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner were among these promoters.

9 62. Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner, like Judd and Humphries, each solicited 10 dozens of investors to invest in the purchase agreements and received transaction-based 11 compensation in return. The investors' interests in the purchase agreements issued by the J&J 12 Entities—which Judd, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner solicited investors to buy—13 constituted securities as that term is defined under the federal securities laws.

14 63. In 2020, Humphries stated to at least one investor that he personally made 15 $250,000 every three months from his investor solicitations and received a 5% commission on 16 investments he solicited.

17 64. Jongeward also made a percentage on each investment he obtained on behalf of 18 the J&J Entities. In early 2022, Jongeward stated to at least one prospective investor that he 19 personally “managed” over 150 investors and about $52 million in investment funds, that this 20 was his “full-time job,” and that he had been doing it for two years.

21 65. In early 2022, Jager stated to at least one prospective investor that he had been 22 soliciting investors for the J&J Entities investment for five years, had solicited 250 investors, and 23 that he and Jongeward together had raised over $200 million from investors for the J&J Entities.
24 Jager also stated to at least one prospective investor that Judd had negotiated a rate of payment to 25 Jager and Jongeward on the investments they raised, and that Tanner worked “under Jager” 26 soliciting investments in the purchase agreements. Judd, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner 27 each used means or instrumentalities of interstate commerce to solicit and sell securities as part

1 of their regular business. Judd, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner each used the internet to 2 solicit investors, transferred cash through wire transfers, and used email and telephone to 3 negotiate and effect sales transactions.

4 66. Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, and Seybert also handled investor funds. While 5 investor funds typically (but not always) flowed into Beasley Law Group's IOLTA account, the 6 payments of purported "returns" to investors whom Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, and Seybert
7 recruited would flow from accounts held by Beasley Law Group or the J&J Entities into bank 8 accounts for entities controlled by Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, and Seybert. From there, 9 Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, and Seybert would distribute purported "returns" to investors they 10 had solicited. Sometimes Humphries, Jongeward, and Seybert also instructed investors to wire 11 their investment money directly to the accounts in the names of the entities they controlled rather 12 than to Beasley Law Group's account.

13 67. Jager used an account in the name of his entity Stirling Consulting, L.L.C., and 14 possibly others, to receive investor funds and also to distribute purported "returns" to investors.
15 Humphries used an account in the name of CJ Investments LLC and JCH Consulting, L.L.C., 16 among others, to receive investor funds and also distribute Ponzi payments to his investors.
17 Jongeward used an account in the name of his entity JL2 Investments LLC, and possibly others, 18 to receive investor funds and to distribute Ponzi payments to his investors. Seybert used an 19 account in the name of his entity Rocking Horse Properties, LLC, and possibly others, to receive 20 investor funds and distribute purported returns to his investors. Tanner used an account in the 21 name of Anthem Assets, LLC, and possibly others, to receive investor funds and distribute 22 purported returns to his investors. On information and belief, Jager, Humphries, Jongeward, 23 Seybert, and Tanner also received commission payments for their investor solicitations in the 24 accounts of those entities that they controlled.

25 68. Tanner solicited numerous investors for the J&J Entities scheme over a period of 26 many months or years. In early 2022, Jager represented to prospective investors that Tanner 27 worked under his supervision to solicit additional investors for the J&J Entities investment and

1 that Tanner had raised over $50 million for the J&J Entities. On information and belief, Tanner 2 and received transaction-based compensation for the investors and investments he solicited.

3 69. At all relevant times while Judd, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, and Tanner engaged 4 in soliciting investors to buy interests in the purchase agreements in exchange for transaction-
5 based compensation, none of them were registered with the Commission as a broker or dealer, 6 nor were they associated with a broker or dealer registered with the Commission.

7 V. The Securities Offered and Sold Were Not Registered

8 70. The securities offered and sold by Judd, Humphries, Jager, Jongeward, Seybert, 9 and Tanner were not registered with the Commission.

10 71. J and J Purchasing LLC filed a Form D on December 13, 2021, purporting to give 11 notice of an exempt offering under Rule 506(b), but the J&J Entities' offers and sales of 12 securities were not exempt under Rule 506(b) because, among other things, investors were never 13 provided with the required disclosures of information under Rule 502(b) [17 CFR § 230.502]. In 14 addition, the Form D was itself false and misleading in its description of, inter alia, the 15 investment and the use of investor funds.
